EPIC for Girls Surpasses Fundraising Goal in Share Omaha's #GivingTuesday402 Campaign, Raising Over $7,500

(OMAHA, NE) - EPIC for Girls, a non-profit organization dedicated to empowering young girls of color through sports, is proud to announce the successful conclusion of Share Omaha's #GivingTuesday402 campaign. The campaign, which aimed to raise $5,000, exceeded all expectations by collecting a remarkable $7,520 in donations.

Executive Director Kimberly Thomas expressed her astonishment and gratitude: "Yeah, that was definitely beyond my expectations." The success of the campaign reflects the community's belief in the power of sports as a tool for empowerment and growth for young girls.

The fundraising campaign, aptly named "Empower Her Game," has not only reached its financial goals but has also sparked a movement. This initiative emphasizes the importance of providing opportunities for girls of color in sports, an area where they have historically been underrepresented. The funds raised will significantly impact EPIC for Girls' program partners, enhancing their capacity to offer diverse and inclusive sporting opportunities.

The proceeds from the #GivingTuesday402 campaign will directly benefit the programs and initiatives of EPIC for Girls. These funds will help to bridge the gap in sports participation, ensuring that more young girls of color have the chance to participate in sports, develop their skills, and build confidence in a supportive environment.
